Uniting the submarine
community for the benefit of the whole family.

ABOUT THE ORGANISATION

The Submarine Family brings together all elements of the submarine community: serving, veteran, family and supporter.

WHAT WE DO

The Submarine family provides a framework for fundraising and coordinated support for comradeship, commemoration, compassion, heritage and projects which support our 'family' in any way.

WHO WE ARE

The Submarine Family is supported and overseen by the Royal Navy Royal Marines Charity (RNRMC). It is led by a board chaired by the Head of the Submarine Service with representatives from all elements of the family, submarine charities and the RNRMC.

HOW CAN I GET INVOLVED?

Visit our website or email, the operations manager at opsmanager@submarinefamily.uk to find out how to support the organisation.

The British Submarines

Some talk of Lewis Bayly, and some of Charlie B,
Of Admirals who daily, command our fleets at sea;
But Dreadnoughts and destroyers are not our only means,
We've got a fleet that none can beat,
The British Submarines.

Now when they are commanded to go and fight their foe,
They fill up all main ballasts and quickly dive below,
And fire both torpedoes and give their foemen "beans";
They give them fits with double hits,
In the British Submarines.

So, let us fill our glasses, and drink the health of those,
Who wield such mighty spanners, and wear such dirty clothes,
On them and their flotillas, the hope of England leans,
So hip hurrah for the I.C.S.,
And the British Submarines.

This Poem is believed to have been written by Lieutenant Gordon E E Gray whilst serving onboard the Submarine Depot Ship HMS Thames in January 1910.
